

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE

That a few words well learned are preferable to many words half learned has been the controlling motive in the compilation of The Ideal Speller.

In grades two, three, four and five, an arrangement of two words a day is provided; in the sixth year, three words; in the seventh year, four and five words, and in the eighth year, five words. Though there is ample authority for not attempting to teach a greater number of words per day than those specified, for the convenience of those schools where the course of study calls for a larger list, this book presents an aggregate number of words for grades two to eight, inclusive, as follows: 350, 450, 600, 600, 600, 600, 600; total 3,800.

Besides these words there are approximately 400 additional words presented in the lists of Contractions, Abbreviations, Homonyms, Prefixes, Suffixes, Synonyms and Word Study.

The words finally selected are those that have been found by recognized authorities to be the most useful in everyday life. All of the so-called "Sage List" and most of the "Cook and O'Shea List" are included.

The authors have purposely omitted historical and geographical names, as such words should be taught in connection with the work in history and geography.

No effort has been made to give ability to spell difficult words except such as are considered eminently useful.

Dictation exercises which include the words of the text are provided in the work of the second to the sixth years, inclusive, while selected quotations are substituted in that of the seventh and eighth years. Throughout the lessons for the second, third, and part of the fourth year, no word occurs in any sentence that has not been taught in some preceeding lesson.

In the primary grades it has not been deemed wise to syllabicate words of more than one syllable, as it is intended that the teacher shall develop such words on the board. In the grammar grades all words of more than one syllable are accented and syllabicated.

Webster's Dictionary has been used as the authority in accent, pronunciation, spelling and syllabication.

The authors gratefully acknowledge their indebtedness to Mr. Edwin G. Broome and Mr. Jacques W. Redway for many excerpts from "A Syllabus in Spelling and Pronunciation," which has been incorporated as a part of this work under the title Suggestions to Teachers.

Acknowledgments are made for the use of the rules for spelling from the Concise Standard Dictionary, by permission of Funk and Wagnalls, Publishers; to Newson Company for the selections from Kipling; to Silver, Burdett & Company for several quotations from Guide Book to English, Book II; to D. Appleton & Company for many excerpts from "Choice Selections" by Northend and Carleton; to Ella Lyman Cabot, Edmund L. Pearson, and Charles F. Dole for one quotation each taken from their writings; to the Russell Sage Foundation for the several lists and percentage data taken from "A Measuring Scale for Ability in Spelling" by Leonard P. Ayres.

Measuring Scale for Ability in Spelling" by Leonard P. Ayres.

Attention is called to the study of "Contractions," "Homonyms," "Abbreviations," "Prefixes," "Suffixes," "Synonyms" and "Word Building" in the appropriate grades; also the Phonic Series following the 3B Section.

The attention of teachers is called to the suggestions on the following pages. Care in following out these suggestions in detail, and in faithfully conducting reviews, will bring the desired results.

SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS

I. Steps in the Preparation of the Lesson.

No word has been mastered by a pupil until he knows its pronunciation, its syllabication (if a word of more than one syllable), its meaning or use, and its spelling.

Pupils should be trained to observe these four requirements in preparing a new lesson.

II. Methods to be Employed in the Preparation of a Lesson.

1. Pronunciation.—In the primary grades the teacher must be the authority in pronunciation. In assigning the new lesson, the teacher should pronounce each new word correctly, slowly, and distinctly, the children repeating.

In the grammar grades, the children should be taught to use the dictionary in the preparation of the lessons.

2. Syllabication.—In the primary grades the teacher should write the syllabicated words on the board.

In this work, it has been thought wise to syllabicate the words in the book for the grammar grades.

3. Meaning and Use.—Do not waste time in defining common words, like horse, house, man. Concentrate effort on the new and unusual words.

In the primary grades the teacher will usually supply the meanings of such words as are new or in any way unusual. In the grammar grades the children should consult the dictionary. Considerable care is necessary to induce pupils to select the most appropriate meaning of the several meanings given.

4. There are several ways in which a pupil may prepare the spelling of a word. Writing the word on paper five or ten times is NOT recommended. The following procedure is suggested: The pupil notes the words in the assigned lessons which appear unusual, or which he CANNOT spell. He concentrates his attention upon these words, one at a time, as follows: (1) He looks closely at the word as printed in the book or written on the board; (2) he writes it ONCE on paper, dividing into syllables (if a word of two or more syllables); (3) he scrutinizes closely the written word; (4) he closes his eyes, or turns the paper over, and spells the word mentally, trying to form a picture of it; (5) he looks again at the written word, if necessary, and writes it on the back of the paper from memory. After he has dealt with each word in this manner, he should try to write the whole list from memory. The object of this method is not only to provide several approaches to the new word, but also to train the memory to retain its form. Mere repetition, whether written or oral, will not produce a lasting impression.

III. Both Written and Oral Spelling Should be Practiced.

It is a good plan to have the words spelled orally before they are written. In dictating the words a teacher's pronunciation should be strictly accurate, and her enunciation distinct. The meaning of each word, excepting the most common ones, should be brought out. The following method has brought excellent results: The teacher gives a sentence which illustrates the meaning of the word, and then repeats the word; for example, "The eel is a kind of fish—eel." The pupils write the word, syllabicating, if a word of two or more syllables.

Another successful method is as follows: The teacher pronounces each word slowly and distinctly; the pupils write the words as given. After each word is written a pupil is called upon to recite orally a sentence illustrating the meaning of the word. In the upper grades giving the definition will usually suffice. Also, in the upper grades the pupils may be required to use the last half of the spelling period for writing original sentences, using the words of the day's lesson.

Concert recitations are NOT recommended.

In oral spelling pupils should pronounce the words distinctly before and after spelling, and indicate the syllabication by a pause between syllables.

Words commencing with a capital letter should be always thus designated.

IV. The Assignment of the New Lesson.

In this series, two words a day have been provided for the first five years of school, beginning with the middle of the first year; three a day for the sixth, four a day for the seventh, and five a day for the eighth.

These words have been carefully selected and, if thoroughly mastered, at the end of the elementary course a pupil will have at his disposal a vocabulary of more than three thousand words.

Remember that a complete mastery of a hundred new words during a term is preferable to a superficial knowledge of five hundred. In assigning a new lesson, the teacher should pronounce each new word distinctly, and point out peculiar difficulties, such as those in colonel, separate, February and receive. The pupils should be urged to concentrate attention on the difficult words.

When a word has one or more homonyms, like see, sea, vain, vane, vein, hear, here, the homonyms should be dwelt upon and the differences in meaning pointed out.

V. Reviews.

Reviews should be frequent. They are provided for at least once a week by the lists at the foot of each page and are suggested for Fridays or for any day when there is a special program of work. A more extended review is provided in the lists on the last few pages of the book for grammar grades.

Dictation exercises are a very satisfactory form of review in the primary grades. Each teacher should keep in a notebook an alphabetical list of the words which give her class especial difficulty, and should give occasional reviews from this list. It is well for every pupil to write in a notebook every word misspelled in the daily lesson in spelling. This list should be supplemented by words misspelled by the pupil in written composition. Every Friday, for review, the teacher might require the members of the class to spell the words in their lists. This could be made either an oral or a written exercise. The teacher should include in her general list of difficult words the words which occur most frequently in the lists given by the pupils. It is a good plan, also, to keep a list of the most troublesome words on the blackboard where the pupils may see them frequently. When words from this list are to be given in a lesson, the list may be concealed. When the teacher feels reasonably certain that a word in the list has been mastered by all members of the class, it may be erased, and another put in its place.

Some teachers have had good results by writing the more troublesome words in the board list with colored chalk. Where there is one especially difficult element in a word, like the colo in colonel, that element only should be written in colored chalk.

Words may be written or printed on "sight cards" for rapid review. A good substitute is to write the words slowly on the board and then erase.

In reviews, again, concentrate effort on the difficult words.

Under reviews comes the spelling match. An occasional "spelling down" is both interesting and stimulating; but a few cautions should be given: (1) Don't have spelling matches too often; (2) don't array girls against the boys; (3) don't leave the choosing of the sides entirely to the pupils; (4) don't give words which only one pupil in a hundred will ever use again in his lifetime.

When high school students constantly stumble on such words as there, practice, distinct, principal (of a school), receive, and separate, it is folly to waste time in the elementary school upon such words as transubstantiation, ecumenical, and eleemosynary.

VI. Methods of Correction.

The practice of exchanging papers for correction is not wise. It is better for children to correct their own papers, while the teacher, or one of the best spellers in the class, gives the correct spelling. The check mark (4) is used in the business world as a mark of approval or accuracy. The cross (+) is used to indicate errors. These marks, when used, should always be placed at the left of the word. The children should be trained to mark and rate their own papers. It is a useful exercise to develop honesty. As a check on the pupils, however, the teacher should frequently review the corrected papers.

Before pupils hand in written work of any kind, they should be required to look through it for errors in spelling. In this way many errors due to carelessness may be prevented.

VII. Additional Suggestions.

In addition to the several methods and devices presented above, there are others as good, if not better, which will occur to an ingenious and resourceful teacher.

Some teachers will find a few simple rules to be helpful. Three important rules will be found on the last pages of the primary book. Others will be found immediately following the work of the seventh year.

Rules should always be taught inductively. That is, the pupils should be led to induce the rule from specific cases within their knowledge.

The significance of prefixes and suffixes should receive some attention in the upper grades. The more common of these will be found immediately following the work of the sixth year.

Many of the more common abbreviations, not already noted in the primary book, will be found following the work of the fifth year. These also should receive some study.

Note:—In the SUGGESTIONS TO TEACHERS, all material not preceded by the asterisk is from "A Syllabus in Spelling and Pronunciation," by Messrs. Broome & Redway.

SYNONYMS

Synonyms are words which have the same or nearly the same meaning. Sometimes the difference is very slight. Sometimes it is so great that it is not safe to use one for the other. The study of synonyms is, therefore, important.

I.*

SYNONYMS FOR STUDY

- aged, ancient, antiquated, elderly, old, are synonyms, for, in a general way, they have the same meaning; but we say, aged or elderly man; ancient history; antiquated fashions; old oak.
- gentle, mild, meek, tame. A gentle disposition; a mild temper; a meek spirit; a tame lion.
- journey, voyage, excursion. We speak of a journey across the continent; a voyage to Europe; an excursion to the woods.

*When children reach the seventh and eighth years of school, they should be given ample opportunity for precision in the choice of words. The study of synonyms affords this discriminative power.

In the exercises presented, give the pupils every opportunity for using synonymous terms in sentences. Insist that the distinction between these synonymous terms be shown in the pupils' compositions and in the pupils' speech.

- 4. large, ample, extensive, immense, enormous. A large sum of money; ample space; extensive lawns; the immense height of a tower; a man's enormous strength.
- response, answer, reply. We speak of an answer to a question; a reply to a charge; response to prayer.
- 6. often, frequently. He came often; he called frequently.
- 7. empty, vacant. An empty pitcher; a vacant room.
- 8. like, love. You like candy; you love your mother.
- 9. copy, imitate. We copy a drawing; we imitate good example.
- teach, learn. The teacher teaches (gives instruction); pupils learn (take instruction).

Π.

Study and use in sentences the following related words:

lift, raise,	gleams, glimmers, glitters
event, incident	timid, fearful
haste, hurry, speed	censure, blame
big, great	defect, default, mistake
below, beneath	behavior, conduct occasion, opportunity	cause, reason completed, finished	fear, alarm
on, upon	democracy, republic, commonwealth treason, disloyalty	protect, defend healthy, healthful	concede, allow

III.

(a) Separate the following words into groups, each containing two synonyms.(b) Use the words of each group in phrases or sentences that will illustrate their meaning.

plot	liberal	curious	contrast
free	protect	superb	temper
proclaim	poverty	want	idle
scheme	compare	mood	inquisitive

WORD STUDY

A Prefix is a letter, word, or syllable placed at the beginning of a word to modify its meaning.

A Suffix is a letter or syllable placed at the end of a word to modify its meaning.

A Stem is the principal part of a word, usually some syllable or group of letters, which shows its derivation.

The following is a form of word analysis suggested for use in all grades:

transportable

trans (Prefix) = across

port (Stem) = carried

MEANING

able (Suffix) = that may be transportable = that may be carried across

"It was indeed an awful evening. The howling of the storm mingled with the shrieks of the sea fowl and sounded like the dirge of the three devoted beings who, pent between two of the most magnificent yet most dreadful objects of nature—a raging tide and an insurmountable precipice—toiled along their painful and dangerous path, often lashed by the spray of some giant billow which threw itself higher on the beach than those that had preceded it. Each minute did their enemy gain ground perceptibly upon them."—Sir Walter Scott.

"God has written upon the flower that sweetens the air, upon the breeze that rocks the flower on the stem, upon the raindrops which swell the mighty river, upon the dewdrop that refreshes the smallest sprig of moss that rears its head in the desert, upon the ocean that rocks every swimmer in its chambers, upon every penciled shell that sleeps in the caverns of the deep, as well as upon the mighty sun which warms and cheers the millions of creatures that live in its light,—upon all hath he written, 'None of us liveth to himself.'"—John Todd.

"We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final restingplace for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But in a larger sense we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract.

The world will little note, nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here."—Abraham Lincoln.

Rules for Spelling

1. Final Consonants Doubled.

Monosyllables ending in f, l, or s, immediately preceded by a single vowel, double the final consonant; as, cliff, bell, brass.

Exceptions: clef, if, of, sol, as, gas, has, his, is, thus, us, was, yes.

2. Final Consonants Not Doubled.

Monosyllables ending in any other consonant than f, l, or s, immediately preceded by a single vowel, do not double the final consonant; as cab, bin, dip, hit, etc.

Exceptions: abb, ebb, add, odd, egg, inn, err, shirr, burr, mitt, butt, fizz, buzz, fuzz.

3. Consonants Doubled Before a Suffix.

Monosyllables ending in a single consonant, preceded by a single vowel, double the consonant before a suffix beginning with a vowel; accented final syllables follow the same rule; as, dip, dipper; abet, abettor.

Exceptions: (1) Syllables ending in x do not double the final letter; as, box, boxes, boxing; (2) when the accent in the derivative is carried further back, the consonant is likely to remain single; as, refer, preference; but preferring, refer, referable; but also referrible; (3) the derivatives of the word gas (except gassed, gassing and gassy) are written with but one s; as, gaseous.

4. Silent e Omitted Before a Suffix.

Silent e final is ordinarily omitted before a suffix beginning with a vowel; as, love, loving, lovable.

Exceptions: (1) Words ending in ce or ge retain the e before able, or ous, in order to avoid hardening the c or g; as, efface-able, changeable, advantageous; (2) the e is retained in hoeing, shoeing and toeing; (3) also in the derivatives of dye, singe, springe, swinge and tinge, thus distinguishing dyeing from dying, etc., and keeping the g soft in tingeing.

5. Silent e Retained Before a Suffix.

Silent e final is ordinarily retained before a suffix beginning with a consonant; as, dire, direful; fine, finely; amaze, amazement.

Exceptions: The e is always dropped in duly, truly, argument, and commonly in abridgment, acknowledgment, awful, judgment and lodgment.

6. Final y Unchanged in Plurals.

Nouns ending in y, when the y is preceded by a vowel, form the plural regularly by simply adding s; as, donkey, donkeys; monkey, monkeys.

7. Final y Changed in Plurals.

Nouns ending in y, when the y is preceded by a consonant, form the plural by changing the y to i and adding es; as, mercy, mercies; sky, skies; pity, pities.

8. Change y to i Before a Suffix.

Words ending in y when the y is preceded by a consonant, change the y into i before any suffix except one beginning with i; as, icy, icily; mercy, merciful; pity, pitiable, pitiful; but marry, marrying.

Exceptions: Adjectives of one syllable ending in y preceded by a consoner ordinarily retain the y; as, shy, shyly.

9. Full as Suffix Changed to ful.

The word full, used as a suffix, drops one l; as, cupful, mouthful, spoonful, etc. (plurals, cupfuls, mouthfuls, spoonfuls, etc.)

10. How to Choose Between ei and ie.

When ei or ie have the sound of ee in feel, the usage may be discriminated as follows: After c the combination is ei; as, ceiling, perceive, receive; after any other letter than c, the combination is ie; as believe, grieve, reprieve.

Exceptions: In leisure and seize, ei is used, though not following c.

NOTE.— ei sounded as a in fate may follow any consonant; as neighbor, sleigh, weigh.

SYNONYMS

I. SYNONYMS FOR STUDY

- 1. attempt, try. Soldiers attempt to capture a fort; they try different ways of reaching it.
- 2. divide, separate. Divide the apple among three girls. Separate the cows from the horses by a fence.
- 3. all, every, each. All men are mortal; every man must die; each boy received a ball.
- 4. discover, invent. Columbus discovered America. Edison invented the phonograph.
- 5. exile, banish. Russians and foreigners alike may be banished, but only Russians may be exiled to Siberia.
- 6. crime, sin. A crime is a violation of law and is applied to grave offenses; sin is a violation of God's law.
- 7. farther, further. Buffalo is farther from New York than Rochester. John had nothing further to say.
- 8. correct, accurate, exact, precise. An accurate statement; correct dress; an exact likeness; the precise meaning of a word.

- 9. force, strength. The force of the flood carried away the bridge; the strength of the wall kept the river from breaking through.
- 10. hate, dislike. We hate evil; we dislike a rainy holiday.

"The old order changeth, yielding place to new, And God fulfils Himself in many ways, Lest one good custom should corrupt the world. Comfort thyself: what comfort is in me? I have lived my life, and that which I have done May He within Himself make pure! but thou, If thou shouldst never see my face again, Pray for my soul. More things are wrought by prayer Than this world dreams of. Wherefore, let thy voice Rise like a fountain for me night and day. For what are men better than sheep or goats That nourish a blind life within the brain, If, knowing God, they lift not hands of prayer Both for themselves and those who call them friend? For so the whole round earth is every way Bound by gold chains about the feet of God." -Alfred Lord Tennyson.

"Our flag means all that our fathers meant in the Revolutionary War; it means all that the Declaration of Independence meant; it means all that the Constitution of our people, organizing for justice, for liberty, and for happiness, meant.

"Our flag carries American ideas, American history, and American feelings. It has gathered and stored chiefly this supreme idea, divine right of liberty in man. Every color means liberty; every thread means liberty; every form of star and beam or stripe of light means liberty; not lawlessness, not license, but organized institutional liberty; liberty through law, and laws for liberty. The day of our country's life has but broadened into morning. Do not put uniforms by. Put the harness of the present on. Lift your eyes to the great tracts of life yet to be conquered in the interest of righteous peace, of that prosperity which lies in a people's hearts and outlasts all wars and errors of men. SYNONYMS

Synonyms are words which have the same or nearly the same meaning.

Sometimes the difference is very slight. Sometimes it is so great that it is not safe to use one for the other. The study of synonyms is, therefore, important.

I.*

SYNONYMS FOR STUDY

- 1. sincere, hearty, cordial. A sincere wish for a person; a hearty liking; a cordial expression of feeling.
- 2. cherish, nourish, nurture. We cherish what we hold dear; we nourish a plant when we give it water; he was nurtured where he was born.
- 3. eminent, distinguished, celebrated. An eminent historian; distinguished guests; a celebrated case.
- * When children reach the seventh and eighth years of school, they should be given ample opportunity for precision in the choice of words. The study of synonyms affords this discriminative power.
- In the exercises presented, give the pupils every opportunity for using synonymous terms in sentences. Insist that the distinction between these synonymous terms be shown in the pupils' compositions and in the pupils' speech.

- 4. puzzled, perplexed, embarrassed. The problem puzzled the pupil; he was perplexed beyond measure; he was embarrassed in the presence of strangers.
- 5. contented, satisfied. Some men are contented with what they have; others will not be satisfied until they have more.
- defend, protect, guard. The inmates of a fortress are defended by its guns; protected by its walls; and guarded against surprise by sentries.
- 7. enough, sufficient. Enough money to buy any house; sufficient money to buy a certain house.
- 8. expect, hope. The regiment was expected to arrive on the following day. I hope for success.
- 9. think, believe. I think it will rain. I believe you are telling the truth.
- 10. neighborhood, vicinity. Neighborhood implies greater nearness than vicinity. Mary's mother lives in our neighborhood. Troy is in the vicinity of Albany.

II.

Study and use in sentences the following related words:

bear, carry splendid, magnificent, superb annoy, vex
droll, comical, laughable extravagant, lavish, profuse alleviate, mitigate, assuage trade, occupation bring, fetch economical, stingy
see, notice, observe bold, reckless conceal, disguise, secrete feast, banquet, festival ferocious, fierce imminent, impending, threatening durable, lasting, permanent student, scholar, pupil convince, persuade remember, recollect habit, custom

III.

- (a) Separate the following words into four groups, each containing four synonyms.
- (b) Use the words of each group in phrases or sentences that will illustrate their meaning, thus: an impediment in speech; an obstacle in the path; a work of great difficulty; drought is a hindrance to the growth of plants.

impediment	esteem	beseech	scheme solicit	obstacle	reduce	implore respect	plot	misfortune	reverence
lesson	difficulty	conspiracy	disaster
mishap	veneration	entreat	diminish
arrangement	calamity	decrease	hindrance

WORD STUDY

- A Prefix is a letter, word or syllable placed at the beginning of a word to modify its meaning.
- A Suffix is a letter or syllable placed at the end of a word to modify its meaning.
- A Stem is the principal part of a word, usually some syllable or group of letters which show its derivation.

The following is a form of word analysis suggested for use in all grades:

transportable

trans (Prefix) = across

port (Stem) = carried

able (Suffix) = that may be

transportable = that may be carried across

"No book is worth anything which is not worth much; nor is it serviceable until it has been read, and reread, and loved, and loved, and loved again, and marked, so that you can refer to the passages you want in it, as a soldier can seize the weapons he needs in an armory."

-John Ruskin.

"We live in deeds, not years; in thoughts, not breaths; In feelings, not in figures on a dial.

MEASURING SCALE FOR COMPARATIVE ABILITY IN SPELLING

ONE THOUSAND COMMONEST WORDS

For the purpose of review and special testing, we publish herewith the 1000 commonest words in English writing, selected by the Sage Foundation* for its investigation of comparative spelling ability in the various grades. The words are grouped in twenty-six divisions (indexed by the 26 letters of the alphabet at the head of the divisions below), each of which includes words of approximately equal spelling difficulty.

The Sage Foundation tests were given to 70,000 children in 84 cities, and include an aggregate of 1,400,000 spellings. As a result of this study, the following percentages are available, and form an excellent check upon the comparative spelling ability of children in the grades. The percentages represent the average attained by the grades indicated, in tests of the words in the twenty-six groups.
